Read the passage carefully and answer the following questions.

There was once a big, white hen that had twelve chicks. They were very small and the hen took good care of them. She played with the chicks when the sun rose and kept them under her wings at night.

One sunny afternoon, the hen took her chicks down to a small stream. There were many small animals and plants near the stream. When they got there, the hen decided to take her chicks to the other side of the stream to look for some food. She saw a large stone jutting out of the water and jumped onto it. From there, she crossed the stream. Turning around, she realised that none of her chicks had followed her.

The hen flapped her wings and cried, "Come here, all of you! Jump onto this stone. You can then jump to the other side."

One at a time, the chicks flapped their wings and jumped onto the stone. However, the last chick remained behind. It was worried and anxious.

"Help me get over the stream, Mother!" the chick cried. Upon hearing that, the hen went back and carried the last chick on her back. Then, the hen flapped her wings and crossed the stream with the chick.
