After a while, he stopped running and looked around his cage for something else to do. He ran over to his food bowl but found that it was empty. Suddenly, he had an idea. He squeezed himself through the bars of his cage. 5

Once he was out of the cage, he climbed up a table and saw a bowl of fruit. Racing over to it, he started munching on some strawberries. While he was greedily eating away, he did not notice Whiskers silently coming up from behind him. 10

“Meow, what have we here?” Whiskers purred.

Suddenly, Whiskers flashed his threatening teeth and claws so menacingly that Cocoa started to panic.

“You are going to make a lovely dinner,” Whiskers said.

Cocoa tried to convince Whiskers of how unappetising and inedible he would be. Whiskers did not believe Cocoa and inched closer to him. Just then, the kitchen light came on. Danny shouted at Whiskers and chased him off the table. Then, Danny picked frightened Cocoa up. 15

One day, the king happened to see a beautiful quilt made by the quilt-maker. He thought that the quilt might make him happy so he wanted the quilt-maker to sew a similar one for him. She told him to give away everything that he owned and then she would sew him a special quilt.

“I can’t do that!” cried the king.

“But if what you have doesn’t make you happy, why don’t you give them away?” the woman advised.

The king pondered over her wise words. He was very reluctant when he started giving his things away. He gave his coats to some beggars and they were very grateful to him. He even allowed children to ride on his royal horse carriage. The king saw the happiness on the children’s faces and finally smiled.

“How can I feel so happy about giving my things away?” he cried out joyfully to his soldiers. From then on, he started giving away his things willingly.

Meanwhile, the quilt-maker kept her word and started sewing. When it was completed, she delivered it to the king. To her surprise, the king ordered the soldiers to bring out his throne. The throne looked extremely comfortable and was padded with a thick seat cushion.

“I’ve saved this one last treasure just for you. Please accept it,” said the king. “It is for the long days of sewing!”
