One hot day, a thirsty ant went to a river for a drink of water. Suddenly, a strong wind blew, sweeping the ant into the river. The ant could not swim and was about to drown.

A bird was sitting on a branch of a nearby tree. Seeing the poor ant, it quickly bit a leaf with her beak and let it fall into the river, close to the ant. "Save your life! Climb onto the leaf!" the bird yelled.

The ant climbed onto the leaf and reached the side of the river safely. Just then, a bird-catcher came and stood behind the tree quietly. He raised his gun and pointed at the bird. The ant quickly stung his right foot. The bird-catcher screamed in pain. The noise made the bird fly away.

A day later, the bird met the ant again. "Thank you for saving my life," said the ant. The bird replied, "You've saved my life too!"

Section L: Comprehension MCQ (5 x 2 m)

Read the following passage carefully and then answer the questions.

One afternoon, Jack was taking a bus home from school. The bus was very crowded and Jack had to stand.

When the bus reached a bus-stop, an old lady boarded the bus. She had a small bag over her right shoulder. She was panting heavily and her face was as white as paper. As there was no seat in the bus, she had to hold on to a handrail.

Suddenly, the bus stopped at a red traffic light. The old lady lost her balance and landed hard on the floor. She cried out loud. Tears began to roll down her cheeks.

"Ouch! My back!" she groaned.

Immediately, Jack helped her up and a schoolgirl gave up her seat. The old lady sat down and said, "Thank you."

After ten minutes, the old lady stood up and Jack helped her get off the bus. "You're a kind boy," she thanked him with a smile.

Jack was glad to help the old lady. He waved goodbye to her through the window of the bus as it moved away from the bus-stop.
