One day, a fox happened to fall into a deep well. No matter how (26) _____ he tried, he could not get out. Just when he was about to (27) _____ up, a goat came by.

"What are you doing in the well, Fox?" asked the goat.

Thinking quickly, the fox replied, "The water in this well is so sweet and refreshing that I have to come down for a drink. Why don't you (28) _____ me here?"

"That sounds like a fantastic (29) _____ to me," said the goat.

After the goat had jumped into the well, the fox told him that it was difficult to get out. The goat soon forgot about the water and became very worried.

"I've an idea," said the fox. "If you put your front legs against the side of the well and keep your head down, I will jump onto your back and when I get out, I will help you up."

The goat did as he was (30) _____. The fox jumped onto the goat's back and leapt to the edge of the well. He turned to the foolish goat and bade him goodbye, leaving the goat trapped in the well.

Read the passage carefully. Then answer the following questions in complete sentences.

"Look, Dad!" exclaimed John excitedly. His father turned and saw John watching the different species of penguins at the penguin exhibit at Jurong Bird Park. John's father had taken him to the bird park so that John could learn more about the different types of birds.

"Do you know that penguins are birds but they cannot fly?" John asked his father. "However, they do 'fly' in the water by diving and flapping their wings."

"Really? I didn't know that. What else do you know about penguins?" asked John's father.

"Well, penguins swim and hunt for fish and squid in the water. However, they cannot breathe underwater and will jump out of the water to breathe in gulps of air. But they are able to hold their breath in the water for a long time," John explained.

"That's interesting! Wow, I didn't know that my son knows so much about penguins," teased his father.

41. What was John looking at?

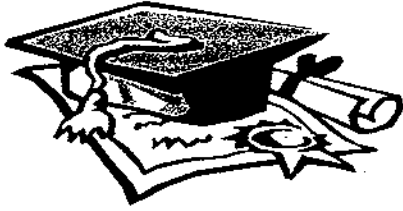

42. Why did John's father take him to the bird park?

43. How do penguins 'fly' in the water?

44. What do penguins feed on?

45. Which word in the passage has the same meaning as "fascinating"?
