Section F: Comprehension MCQ (5 marks)

Read the passage below and answer questions 26 to 30.

What is it about the North Pole that continues to attract adventurers from around the world? The "Real Top of the World" has for more than a century drawn explorers from different countries to its icy landscape. Overcoming the impossible physical conditions of the North Pole has been embraced as a great and honourable challenge by explorers.

Robert Edwin Peary, an American explorer, together with his assistant, Matthew Henson, became the first two people to reach the North Pole on 6 April 1909. They trekked through the American state of Alaska, the western part of Canada and the Greenland Ice Sheet in their arduous journey.

Also worthy of mention is Sir Wally Herbert. He embarked on a 16-month journey to reach the North Pole in 1968. This incredible journey took 476 days. Like other successful attempts, it displayed the triumphs of human skill, endurance and courage. As a remarkable explorer, he will always be remembered for capturing the spirit of the polar world, its wildlife and native people. His photographs are still widely used by publishers of books and magazines.

One of the most formidable polar adventurers in recent times is Will Steger. The award-winning polar explorer is known for his efforts to warn the world of global warming, a serious problem caused by the release of great quantities of carbon dioxide into the atmosphere. The increase in carbon dioxide, a heat-trapping gas, has raised our planet's average temperature. As eyewitness to the accelerated melting of polar ice, one of the most frightening effects of climate change, ~~William~~^{Will} established the ~~William Steger~~^{Will} Foundation to educate and encourage people to take actions against the environmental problem.

20

The Foundation has gone online by setting up the web site, www.globalwarming101.com. In addition to news and information on global warming, the web site offers many ideas for people to play a part in saving the environment. Inspired by the adventuring spirit of ~~William~~^{Will}, the Foundation has been organizing expeditions to the North Pole for young explorers between 17 and 28 years old. The aim is to promote international partnerships among young people to adopt programmes to confront issues in global warming.

25

26. The 'Real Top of the World' in Line 2 refers to the _____
- (1) North Pole
 - (2) Greenland Ice Sheet
 - (3) western part of Canada
 - (4) American state of Alaska
27. Why does the North Pole attract adventurers?
- (1) It tests the courage, endurance and skill of adventurers.
 - (2) It is a meeting place for famous adventurers of the world.
 - (3) It has attracted adventurers for more than a hundred years.
 - (4) It gives adventurers the opportunity to travel in an icy landscape.
28. What had Sir Wally Herbert done to be remembered as an outstanding explorer of the North Pole?
- (1) He photographed the environment of the North Pole.
 - (2) He made his incredible journey to the North Pole in 1968.
 - (3) He became one of the first explorers to reach the North Pole.
 - (4) He warned of global warming after an expedition to the North Pole.
29. Will Steger, according to the passage, saw the _____
- (1) melting of ice in the North Pole
 - (2) loss of wildlife in the North Pole
 - (3) interest of adventurers in the North Pole
 - (4) lifestyle of native people in the North Pole
30. According to the passage, which statement is not true of The Will Steger Foundation?
- (1) It gives ideas for people to do something to save earth.
 - (2) It aims to promote an adventurous spirit all over the world.
 - (3) It has a web site that creates awareness for global warming.
 - (4) It organizes expeditions to the North Pole for young explorers.

Section K: Comprehension Open-Ended (10 x 2 marks)
 Read the passage below and answer questions 71 to 80.

Sally was only eight years old when she heard her parents, Mr and Mrs Smith, talking about her little brother, George. George was cancer-stricken with a deadly disease that had claimed many lives and only a surgery could save him. However, the family had no financial ability to pay for a surgery. Sally's spirits were dampened when she learnt about her little brother's grim health condition. As Sally pondered about how she could help her dear brother, she overheard Mr Smith whisper that only a miracle could save George's life. 5

Upon hearing that, Sally knew exactly what she had to do. She went to her bedroom and pulled out her piggy bank from its hiding place in the closet. She shook all the change out onto the floor and counted it carefully. After counting the coins for the third time, Sally bundled them up in her favourite handkerchief, slipped out of the apartment and made her way to the pharmacy that was just around the corner. 10

After arriving at the pharmacy, Sally waited patiently for the pharmacist to give her his attention. Yet, the pharmacist was too busy speaking to a well-dressed gentleman to be bothered with an eight-year-old. Hoping to attract some attention, Sally twisted her feet on the ground to make a scuffling noise. Unfortunately, her attempt was futile. Keeping to her persistent nature, Sally cleared her throat aloud. Still, no one in the store acknowledged her presence. Finally, she took a coin out from her precious handkerchief and slammed it on the glass counter. That did it! 20

Annoyed, the pharmacist hollered that he had no time to entertain Sally. Sally retorted with an equal dose of annoyance and told the pharmacist that she had to speak to him about her brother. The innocent girl explained that her little brother was very ill and she wanted to buy a miracle from the pharmacy. As the pharmacist stared at Sally in complete bewilderment, Sally elaborated that only a miracle could save her little brother as her family could not afford to send him for an operation. 25

With a slight chuckle in his voice, the pharmacist informed Sally that he did not sell a miracle and was unable to help her. Sally insisted that she had money and demanded to purchase a miracle, but the pharmacist turned down 30 her request repeatedly. ~~Amazed~~ by what he had heard, the well-dressed gentleman asked how much money Sally had with her. Sally answered proudly that she had ~~a dollar and eleven cents~~ and that was all the money she had in the world.

"That's exactly the price of a miracle to save a little brother," the gentleman replied. He took Sally's money and requested her to take him to meet her parents and little brother. ~~That well-dressed gentleman was Dr. Carlton Armstrong, a renowned surgeon who specialised in treating George's potentially deadly illness.~~

40

Two weeks later, George's operation was successfully completed and he embarked on his route to recovery. Looking back at the chain of events, Mr and Mrs Smith were glad that their little boy was truly saved by a miracle, one that happened through the kindness and generosity of Dr. Armstrong. For Sally, she believed that the miracle which saved her brother's life merely cost one dollar ~~and eleven cents~~, plus the simple faith of a little child.
